Treasury, which has to operate under Civil Service rules, has some concerns regarding the enforcement of these non-disclosure agreements, particularly against those persons for whom such agreements were not made a condition of appointment to their present positions. 2. Comments or amendments:*

The proposed directive has taken inadequate consideration of the special situation as regards COMINT. There are statutes which specifically apply and caveats now in use. More generally the directive does not define "source or methods information" in any useful administrative way and yet it is clear that the administration of the directive is the key. I fear the directive provides inadequate legal basis for prosecution due to vagueness and must be returned to committee for strengthening and further examination.
